

Adaptation:
What's your piece
of the puzzle?

Policy Makers

To integrate local needs and perspectives with national and district priorities for more equitable decision making on adaptation

Extension Workers

To communicate and work with all actors to deliver up to date information, techniques and technologies for sustainable agriculture

Local Groups (Youth, Women, Farmers, Disabled)

To share your experience and knowledge with one another and with others to support effective and relevant adaptation actions

Traditional Authorities

To lead and promote equitable natural resource management and sustainable agriculture activities in your communities

It takes everyone!

CARIIA

Collaborative Adaptation Research Initiative in Africa and Asia

IDRC | CRDI

Canada

UKaid

from the British people

Researchers

To engage with communities, policy makers, the private sector and others to jointly develop a better understanding of adaptation

Private Sector

To learn about, invest in and co-finance sustainable initiatives for climate change mitigation and adaptation in semi-arid West Africa

NGOs/ Civil Society

To support the voices of marginalized groups, demand accountability of the powerful, and use networks to share adaptation practices

Media

To serve as a reliable source of information and reflection on adaptation practices, and as an early warning system for climate change impacts.